Highlights of the Lecture:

A Guest Lecture on How to Crack Interview? Organized by Training & Placement Department of MET's Institute of Pharmacy, Bhujbal Knowledge City, Adgaon, Nashik. Total 38 students from Second year M.Pharm have attended the session. The objective of this session was to develop personality and communication skills of the students for interview.

Mr. Amol Gotmare has specially explained preparation as a single most and the prime factor of interview. Also mental preparation is the single most and the prime factor which matters during an interview. According to him one should take interviews as a process of mutual exploration between the interviewer and the candidate. That means, students alert their senses in a way that they should do thinking of the interview as a way by which they are equally trying to explore the company just like the interviewer is trying to explore them. This assumption will not only give student a confidence but will also save them from getting nervous if they had thought that the interviewer is the dominant one. While talking to the interviewer, maintain eye contact and try to focus on him. Presence of mind must be there and focusing on him will divert the attention from ourselves. This will make sure that the nervous personality do not shows up. Also he suggested tips for the success in the academics. Students asked many queries which were resolved by Gotmare Sir.

Outcome:

To get survive in this competitive world, institute has made efforts for students to become competent with soft skills along with technical knowledge. In the session, Sir had nicely
